

To Edith,

In the Hartford shady bowers,
May your life be spent in happy,
happy hours.

Your friend,

To Edith

Be good dear child and dutiful to those who are watching over you. Regard their counsel, and God will bless you. Be honest and truthful, keep an open heart to your teachers and guardians, thus they will love you.

Let the children love one another. Keep the golden rule of heaven. The faults of others to forgive <sup>As ye yourself would be forgiven</sup> suffer little children to come unto <sup>me</sup>. Forbid them not. The Saviour says, For like unto them ye all must be, If ye would enter the Kingdoms of Heaven.

With kind wishes of your Great Aunt
