

May 16th 1840. A communication from Mother Anne to Amy.
 As a friend & Mother have I come, to speak peaceable words and bring a beautiful present to thee. And I will call this present a good child's reward.

My little child, I have for some time past extended an arm of care over you, you I have often seen & noticed you.

You my dear child some years ago, I placed within your heart a diamond of living faith. This diamond has shown in dark hours.
 Therefore my dear child prize forever this diamond of faith, yield obedience to your beloved elders, follow them, & you will be led to the mansions of my love & mansions of my joy.

So persevere, fear not, take comfort, renew your courage to press for the prize.

So now my little child, you may receive my best love, & let it work in you the fear of God & a humble spirit.

So in sweetest of love, may my little Amy forever farewell.
